LIGHT/HAZARD SWITCH DECALS

Instructions:

- Remove the buttons from the AC Panel by pulling straight out.
- Place the button on a table (icon side up) and remove the plastic rectangle* from the button by pushing down on the center of the button. An ample amount of pressure is required.
- Place clear packing tape or scotch tape over the front of the new decal then cut it out. This will prevent wearing out the decal if you push the buttons in the center. Since all buttons are not created equal you have a few options to choose from depending if you need the new icon a bit higher or lower on the rectangle*.
- Place the new decal overtop of the old. If you desire, double sided tape can be used to hold it in place.
- Return the rectangle* inside the button. Place a dab of super glue (or another preferred adhesive) to secure it in place (see Figure 1). This is necessary especially if you press in the center of the button.

Disclaimer:

Yes it won't be as bright as the original at night. But it will look better during the daytime. If you want it to be really bright at night then you must scrape off the black paint from the original or fabricate your own transparent piece of plastic on which to place the new decal.

* Yes, it's not a true rectangle but you knew what I was talking about.
